

Terri Matteson

Alpha Sigma

Terri Matteson currently volunteers as the state director for the Arizona Science Olympiad, Division G, which is the middle school division. In her role as state director she is responsible for coordinating the statewide training for middle school teachers to be coaches. She also plans and facilitates International, Regional and Finals tournaments. Arizona currently has 29 teams and a goal this year of doubling the number of teams.

Terri will be presenting this fall at both the Arizona Science Teacher's Association Convention in October and the National Gifted Association Conference in Atlanta in November.

She is the Student Achievement Assessment Coordinator for the Liberty Elementary School District and in the final stage of her dissertation for her doctorate at Argosy University. As a previous International Scholarship recipient, she will present her doctoral dissertation at the Delta Kappa Gamma International Convention next summer.
